

Key findings of HSBC education (Singapore) report

70%

of parents are confident their child will have a bright future

81%

of parents are ready to make personal sacrifices for their child to succeed

US$70,939

is the average amount parents say they spend on their child's primary, secondary and tertiary education

96%

of parents would consider a postgraduate education for their child

67%

of parents are funding their child's education from day-to-day income

45%

of parents would consider university abroad for their child, yet 33% of them do not know how much it would cost

Australia

is the most likely destination for parents considering university abroad for their child

67%

of parents would consider a university degree that is either completely or partly online