Making AI algorithms more transparent

In this hypothetical and simplified scenario, BasisAI’s Bedrock solution displays the various metrics that an AI algorithm uses to arrive at a credit risk score for a bank customer whose loan application has been rejected.

Credit risk assessment model

Bedrock shows that age was the metric which had the biggest negative impact on the customer's score. With this information, the bank can then decide if the algorithm's decision is fair or unduly biased.